Cleanzone celebrates comeback in 2022

Frankfurt am Main, 01 12 2021. On 23 + 24 November 2022, exhibitors, visitors and institutions will meet at Cleanzone in Frankfurt am Main for the tenth time. After being suspended due to the Corona pandemic this year and last, the growing cleanroom industry is looking forward to the physical comeback of the international trade fair for cleanroom and cleanliness technology, hygiene and contamination control next year.

Interested companies can now register as exhibitors for Cleanzone 2022. The demand in the cleanroom industry for an international interdisciplinary trade fair that promotes exchange and market overview has increased even further during the Corona virus pandemic, and with it the interest in taking part in Cleanzone 2022. This was the result of a survey conducted by Messe Frankfurt among manufacturers of cleanroom technology. Moreover, the respondents voted with a clear majority for a biennial frequency of the event.

Kerstin Horaczek, Vice President Technology Shows at Messe Frankfurt, explains: "The results of the survey have confirmed that the Cleanzone concept is already meeting the needs of the market for an international scope and industry know-how. With foreign visitors from over 40 countries, Cleanzone is the international meeting place for the cleanroom sector and with the lecture programme, a mixture of current research, new standards and technologies as well as best-practice examples, we promote exchange and further training. We will respond to the demand for a change in the trade fair cycle from 2022. Cleanzone will then take place every two years."

The Corona virus pandemic has given cleanroom technology a new boost and made many of its applications popular in everyday life as well. More and more industries such as the food sector are therefore using aspects of cleanroom technology to ensure the quality of their products. With its interdisciplinary approach, Cleanzone on 23 + 24 November 2022 will bring together all production planners and technicians at one table from the pharmaceutical industry, biotechnology, the chemical industry, healthcare, food, surface technology and microsystem technology to optics and laser technology, aerospace and the automotive industry. In order to make the Cleanzone range of products and services even more visible for these industries, Messe Frankfurt has developed corresponding visual motifs. Exhibitors can use these in their own communication to specifically address their user industries.

Today, cleanroom technology is much more than a clean room or an enclosure that creates a clean environment – it ensures the protection of the product throughout the entire production process. Cleanzone takes this development into account and covers the entire material flow in the cleanroom with its product range:

- Architecture, planning, engineering
- Building technology, construction, material delivery
- Transfer, equipment + fixtures/furnishings
- Measurement technology, qualification
- Hygiene, components, microbiology
- Outward transfer, packaging, shipping
- Training, regulations, networking

Exhibitors can register now for Cleanzone 2022. Further information on the trade fair and stand packages can be found here.

Cleanzone covers the entire product spectrum for clean production.
